after this lady. First shots were fired, then the suspects car slid into a car parked on top of the already smashed car. No one was seriously hurt. A woman driving a station wagon and a man in a scooter were both arrested in West Palm Beach, Florida, after the West Palm Beach Police Department said they found out who was driving a bullet-riddled car. Police said the station wagon was stolen on May 4 after the woman had been trying to buy the vehicle for a couple of days. The two were arrested on May 6. At the time of the arrest, the officer on the scene pulled out a purple colored t-shirt from the suspect's car. This is when the officer saw the victim's bloody t-shirt. That's when the detective said he had a clear shot of the identity of the thieves. According to the report, the woman identified the man in the scooter as her boyfriend. She did not know who was driving the station wagon but said a friend of her boyfriend's was driving it at the time. The Morning Download A Lot of Beers Are Left in the City (Frederick, Md.) -- Jason Meredith: If they don't start expanding the parking, M&T Stadium will be a headache for Baltimore's beer culture. The Ravens' new $1.3 billion stadium project was supposed to be flexible enough to accommodate beer trucks. Instead, a series of dashed hopes lead to a local tavern owner getting busted with more than 2,000 kegs in a warehouse. That's a lot of beer, but the idea of a giant stadium parking lot full of sports trucks is even better for the beer scene. While we still have a long way to go to get into stadiums (La. Gov. Bobby Jindal's plans for LSU's Tiger Stadium are a world-class nightmare), there's a lot of potential
